

Girl Scouts Court of Awards Draws Crowd

With a special commemoration of their tenth birthday, the Sierra Madre Girl Scouts held their Spring Court of Awards before a large audience of parents and friends in the City School auditorium last Friday evening.

Mrs. Raymond D. Andrews, Commissioner, who presided, talked on the progress of Girl Scouting in Sierra Madre since its start in 1936 when Mrs. Edith Jardine led the first troop to be formed. There is room for all from 7 to 70, she said, stressing the need for more leaders in the expanding city program.

Programs for the Court, ushering, and the flag salute were in the charge of Troop 2, who, starting as the first Brownie Troop in the city, were presented with Senior pins. Senior Troop 1, composed of Barbara Sumner, Joyce Fergus, Dennis Simpson, Doris Fetters and Lillian Dowling, were presented with Girl Scout Albums from the Council, as being their final appearance as Girl Scouts.

Other awards and recognitions given were: Troop 9, community

Robert Hurt Discharged Lt. Colonel

Robert G. Hurt, son of Dr. L. M. Hurt, of 721 West Orange Grove, Sierra Madre, has just been discharged from the Army in the rank of Lt. Colonel. Colonel Hurt's last assignment was as aide to General Kenneth F. Lord, Commanding General of the former Eastern Defense Command, now part of the First Army, at Governors Island, New York.

Colonel Hurt was inducted into the service as a private at Sierra Madre on March 5, 1941, and sent to Camp Roberts for basic training. At Roberts he was selected for officer training and sent to Fort Benning, Georgia, where he was commissioned in the Infantry. Then followed a series of important, exciting and sometimes dangerous assignments. Colonel Hurt was aide to General Grunert in the 6th Corps Area, then assigned to Washington, first to Aligier, then followed a series of important, exciting and sometimes dangerous assignments. Colonel Hurt was aide to General Grunert in the 6th Corps Area, then assigned to Washington, first to Aligier, then followed a series of important, exciting and sometimes dangerous assignments.

Still later he was assigned to the Casablanca Conference and went on from there to Algiers as one of General Eisenhower's aides. Returning to the War Department he was sent on special missions to Alaska and other theaters of operations. He was eventually assigned as aide to General George Gruent, Commanding General, Eastern Defense Command. At the time of the Army investigation into the disaster at Pearl Harbor, Colonel Hurt accompanied General Gruent to Hawaii.

After a short leave, Colonel Hurt will enter the investment business with Calvin Bullock, at 1 Wall Street, New York City.

Fifty Local Boy Scouts Attend Big Camporee

Fifty Sierra Madre Boy Scouts, leaders and committeemen were among the 1500 boys and 600 men participating in the first post-war "camporee" of the Pasadena-San Gabriel Valley Council at the Arcadia Recreation Park Saturday and Sunday.

Local troops 1, 2 and 3, and the Explorers Post made a creditable showing with their handicraft, fire-building and camp participation activities. At the awards ceremony held Sunday afternoon, the Senior Scouts, Explorer Post 108, were awarded high honor rating, both as a post and as a crew, for their camping proficiency. Troop 1 received standard rating; Troops 2 and 3, approved rating.

The huge demonstration of camping skill, pioneering and Scoutcraft was open to the public. Pitching camp Saturday afternoon with varied types of tents, sleeping bags, pack racks and cooking gear, the Scouts engaged in exhibitions of skills particular to their groups—the Sea Scouts in their spectacular Breeches Buoy Drill, Explorer Scouts in the putting up of a monkey bridge of rope similar to the jungle bridges of the South Pacific, and the Air Scouts flying model aircraft with lifelike precision. The entire attendance assembled at the impressive campfire Saturday evening in the amphitheatre of the baseball field, where a special program featured the much applauded camping antics of "Donald Duck" by Clarence Nash, "the voice of Donald Duck" of the famous cartoons. Protestant and Catholic services were held Sunday morning. After the colorful awards ceremony the grounds were put in shipshape order and camp broke up at 3:00.

LOCAL THEATRE MODERNIZES FOR PUBLIC

The Sierra Madre Theatre has started on a complete remodeling and modernization program which promises to afford the city with "the cleanest, finest, most modern theatre possible," the owners stated yesterday.

THIRTY-EIGHT YEAR OLD MULE RETIRES FROM PACK TRAIN SERVICE

Veteran Mule Nears End of 34-Year Toil

Jadda, one of the original mules in the old Chantry Flats pack train, has been carrying supplies to camps and cabin owners for 34 years over the old Sturtevant trail in Big Santa Anita Canyon. She will be retired as soon as Jim, her successor, is sufficiently trained to take her place at the head of the train.

She commenced her work at the age of four and Mr. Axling, in an interview granted the NEWS, says she has earned her right to retire on her pension or unemployment insurance. As reckoned by man she is 114 years old, he says. A mule at 15 is considered to be equal in life span to a man of 45, so Jadda at 38 is equivalent to a man of 114.

She will be retained for lead mule work on special occasions and will do just enough to keep her in shape. Jadda has carried everything from doughnuts to bobcats and once even pulled a piano, mounted on a dolly, up the trail to a cabin.

Started in 1894
Wilburn Sturtevant pioneered the packing to his camp in 1894 with 40 animals. Succeeding owners included Jack Baird, Arie Hoegee and his son, Councilman Vinton Hoegee, Otis Johnston, the late William Corum and Bill Adams.

Pack Train Busy
Many people have thought that with the coming of the automobile, the day of the pack train must be over, but not so. It is still a flourishing business. I see seven tons of merchandise in front of me now, waiting to go up," Axling said. He serves four big private camps besides several public ones, and 144 cabins, using 17 horses, burros and mules. The five-mile trip through the Canyon to Sturtevant camp takes five hours with burros carrying 125 pounds each and mules from 200 to 300 pounds.

The trail formerly started in this city, but since the paving of the road, Chantry Flats is the starting point. Mr. Axling states the popularity of the Canyon is growing rapidly, sometimes from 500 to 600 people visiting the 20 acre park at Chantry Flats and the 10 and 12 free public camps maintained by the Forest Service, and the four private camps, with facilities taxed to capacity. The Forest Service is fixing up the stoves, putting up retaining walls, beautifying the camps, etc. There are camps above Sturtevant Falls, in Winter Creek Canyon, Cascade, Spruce Grove and others delight the campers. Most of them are week-end guests, but cabins are occupied most of the time in favorable weather and there are some year round residents.

Four Large Camps
There are four large private camps. Camp Bona Coard, for Girl Scouts, about one mile up, open the year round, is used mostly by the girls in summer vacation and week-ends. There are usually 40 to 50 girls there every week-end.

Fern Lodge, two miles up, is open to the public the year round. The owners are putting in a fine swimming pool and making other improvements. Camp LeRoy, up three miles, 5,000 feet high, owned by LeRoy Haynes of Whittier, is sponsored by the Nazarene churches with about 60 there over each week-end. Sturtevant Camp, four miles up, between 6,000 and 7,000 feet elevation, is owned by a Methodist organization. Plans are being made to rebuild the cabin and modernize the camp, rebuilding the dining room and kitchen, with other extensive improvements. Surely vacation land is at the door of Sierra Madre.

PAVING OF EAST YUCCA TRAIL IS COMPLETED
Co-operating with property owners, the city has completed the black top paving of East Yucca trail from Woodland drive to the east property line of the Nature Friends' club house. Paving of this area will benefit Woodland drive as sand and gravel, often washed down the street in storm season, created a hazard.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY COLLECTS VALUABLE DATA FOR FUTURE USE

Over 50 members of the city's pioneer families and early settlers, and others interested in the early history of Sierra Madre attended the annual meeting of the Sierra Madre Historical Society held Thursday at the home of Dr. Arthur O. Pritchard and Miss Martha Pritchard, 121 E. Alegria. Miss Pritchard was assisted in receiving the guests by Miss Marjorie Adams, Mrs. Frank A. Spencer, Mrs. N. B. Hutton and Mrs. C. W. Jones.

William Laurens Rhoades presided and C. W. Jones, first mayor of this city, who was elected in 1907, and served for seven terms, read an exceedingly interesting paper on the History of Sierra Madre's Water, which required a great amount of research work but which will be of immense value in the records of the city. (This is being published in this issue of the News.) Mr. Jones also had a number of very old maps which were most interesting, some of which he secured from City Engineer Joseph Hurley.

Officers re-elected for the ensuing year were: William Laurens

Sierra Madre Graduation Date Set for June 14

The recent school board meeting registered events and happenings of great importance to parents and children of the district. The formal registration of Miss Elizabeth Steinberger, first grade teacher, Miss Alice Shook, home making teacher and Cafeteria manager and George Kyle, seventh grade teacher were accepted. Mrs. Saline A. Pascoe who has been teaching at Duarte the past year has been engaged as a teacher for the coming year as has Mary Patterson Bush of the Bassett School near Puente has been engaged as kindergarten director. Plans for housing all classes when school starts in September were discussed. With an increase in enrollment anticipated, more classrooms must be made available.

SPECIAL MOVIE PROCEEDS TO BE CONTRIBUTED TO COMMUNITY FUND

Mr. Stein, manager of the Sierra Madre Theatre, has announced that a special children's movie will be shown Saturday morning, June 23, the entire proceeds of which will be donated to the Community Fund.

The show will be a full length one of 1 1/2 hours' running, consisting wholly of comedy cartoons.

Sierra Madre Water History

By C. W. JONES

In gathering information on my subject I encountered many interesting things pertaining to early and pre "Sierra Madre" days, which might prove interesting as well as informative, so I mention some outstanding ones as a sort of preface to the general discussion of my subject.

I was quite discouraged when I was unable to locate the minute books of the Sierra Madre Water Company or any of its records, being informed they probably were burned in a three day conflagration at the time the City Hall, finding only municipal records and data. However, in my search I ran across some information that proved interesting and helpful to me at least. The records of Santa Anita Ranch, which were coming and in complete. However, I found some survey maps that shed some light on dates and conditions.

In the early pioneer days of every section of our country the first settlers took what they wanted and circumscribed their possessions by natural boundary lines and sometimes not all of them. I remember seeing some

Common Language Advocated by Kiwanis Speaker

Carl Bowman, associated with the California Teachers' association, was the speaker at Kiwanis Tuesday on the subject, "An International Language." He advocates a basic English Language of about 800 words, which can be spoken by all nationalities to promote better understanding.

The club voted in favor of a split-up Division 10 with Sierra Madre, Claremont, El Monte, Glendora, Monrovia, Ontario, Pomona and Temple City comprising the Eastern Division.

Dr. Philip R. Woodworth was received into membership with Clarence Huntsinger in charge of the induction ceremony. Robert Dodge was nominated as a member of the Board of Directors.

Next week Rev. George Walker Pastor of the Tremont Baptist church, Pasadena, will be the speaker on "A Memorial to Veterans of World War II." Rev. Walker was a Chaplain in the U. S. Navy for three years, stationed on an aircraft carrier for 18 months, seeing service in the South Pacific.

Rhoades, President; C. W. Jones, Vice-President; Mrs. Edith Blumer Bowen, Historian; Mrs. Emily Brugman Childs, Secretary-Treasurer.

Mrs. Carl Pegler was the oldest pioneer resident present, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Robinson, coming out from Lowell, Mass., in 1833. The next year Mr. Robinson started a store in his home, the first house north of the present Welch Block on Baldwin, the first store in Sierra Madre. Mrs. Bowen came in 1886 and Miss Daisy Hawks and Mrs. Laura Stevenson came in 1887 with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ammi D. Hawks. The Hawks family was the first to buy land in Sierra Madre of the Carters and they were active in the organization of the Episcopal church. Among others present were: Mrs. Emily Brugman Childs of Pasadena, whose parents planted the famous Wistaria Vine; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pegler, Mr. Pegler having helped his father drill wells and assist in other pioneer projects on his father's ranch;

ANOTHER STAGE OF BUILDING COMPLETED AT YOUTH HUT

Work on the Youth Building at Water Works Park is progressing rapidly notwithstanding much inclement weather. Sunday 12 men reported and the result was getting the ridge pole and rafters up. Of the 12 men, seven were members of the American Veterans Committee who are much interested in the project.

Canyon Park Celebrated Saturday Night With Picnic Dinner and Speeches at Brookside "Turn Around"

Culminating three years of effort, residents of Brookside and Sunnyside lanes, celebrated completion of their paving project Saturday with a picnic and supper served to 80 neighbors and guests.

Tables, complete with flowers and laden with food contributed by the community, were set up spreading branches of live oak and sycamore trees at the Brookside "turn around" with benches and chairs available for all.

Rousing speeches by Mayor J. Milton Steinberger and ex-Councilman Bruce McGill added to the occasion which was attended by ex-Mayor Thomas Schwartz and wife; Councilman Froehlich and Nuetzel; their families; Joe Swanson, Mrs. McGinnis and son, Helen Erb contributed accordion solos and Mrs. D. A. Hauk was introduced as the youngest 95-year-old girl in the party.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bowers, in charge of arrangements, were assisted by Mrs. Edmondston, Mrs. J. F. Key, Mrs. Dorothy Humphrey, Mrs. Norma Hensen and others. The group is already planning other community affairs for the future.

Paving of this district, completed by the untiring efforts of residents and city officials, represents 26 contributors and approximately 50 lots.

Humane Officer Vs. Dog Catcher in Public Light

The local branch of the California Federation Children and Animal Protection urges all people who signed the petition for a Humane Officer in place of the present dog catcher to come to the City Hall, Tuesday evening for the Council meeting, May 28. The Federation is anxious to impress the fact that the proposed program will require the co-operation of every dog owner in the city. It will not rescind the leash ordinance but will ensure the return of the dog to the owner without pound experience if the dog is properly licensed. It will mean a fine attached for the violation. The program will be humane, educational and of assistance in all problems that arise.

ALL PLACES OF BUSINESS WILL CLOSE AND DISPLAY FLAGS IN RESPECT TO DEAD OF ALL WARS

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day being one of the holidays most sacred to the memory of those who sacrificed their lives in the cause of liberty, we wish to urge every resident and business man to display the Flag on this day.

This action is not only a patriotic one but is a definite token of appreciation to those still living who served their country in the last war.

Roy H. Pickett, Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mail Service Sought By Canyon Park's Main Street

With the completion of paving through the 600 and 700 blocks on Brookside and along Sunnyside lane, property owners now seek mail delivery for their area. An adequate turn around, for which a parcel of ground was contributed by I. H. Erb, makes such delivery feasible. A petition is being circulated by J. F. Key. Aside from the convenience such a service would offer residents here, removal of a large number of mail boxes from the west side of Woodland drive, many of them unsightly, would greatly improve the appearance of Canyon Park's main street.

Mrs. Hinkley Re-Elected To 4th Term

A very quiet school board election was conducted last Friday resulting in Mrs. Henrietta B. Hinkley's re-election to the board for the coming three year term. Mrs. Hinkley has given valued service to the public in serving the past nine years on the board, most of the time as clerk. The other members of the Sierra Madre District are E. Waldo Ward and Clarence Huntsinger.

Col. Moffatt Rites Arlington Cemetery

Military services were held yesterday afternoon at Arlington National Cemetery for the late Col. R. Curtis Moffatt of the Army Air Forces. Col. Moffatt was one of five killed near Selfridge Field, Mich. Saturday in the crash of a two-motored Army plane.

Small Building Burns

A small building, used largely for storage, at the rear of the property owned by Mrs. Madge Hare, 279 W. Highland, was discovered on fire Friday evening by Miss Martha Sherry, a resident at the same address. The fire department responded to call and the fire was extinguished before spreading to other buildings, but had such a start that the contents were almost a total loss. Furniture and household goods were stored there, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sharp, who are temporarily staying with Mrs. Sharp's sister, Mrs. Hare.

Many Riders from Sierra Madre Will Participate in Children's Riding Club June Horse Show at the Green Ring

In preparation for their June 8 Horse Show, the members of the Children's Riding Club are diligently practicing their jumps, diagonals and leads under the tutelage of E. B. Green at his ring in Monrovia.

The show is being put on and arranged by the children themselves. The officers and committee chairmen include several Sierra Madre equestrian enthusiasts. Mike McGill, who has five jumpers at the Green Ring, is vice-president of the club. Ann Willis of East Carter is in charge of publicity and Elsie Ann Ward, an instructor, is on the advisory committee.

The events will be for children 16 years of age and under except for two open classes of hunters and jumpers. Complete details will appear in a later edition.

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day will be observed this year in an appropriate ceremony to be conducted jointly by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion and its Auxiliary.

Brief services will be held promptly at 10:30 a.m., Thursday in the Sierra Madre Cemetery. In addition to the customary eulogy of those who gave their lives in the service of their Country, there will be a squad from the State Guard to fire a salute of honor, and buglers to sound taps, the soldier's farewell.

Since this is the one National Holiday whose purpose is to honor the dead of all wars, a large attendance is expected. Pupils and teachers of the local schools, both public and parochial, have been especially invited.

As usual, the graves of veterans will be properly marked and decorated.

"We Can't Let Them Starve" Local Food Collection Starts Next Monday May 27

MRS. GOODWIN HAS CORPS OF WORKERS

The local arrangements are practically completed for the Emergency Food Collection in Sierra Madre. The collection on behalf of the UNRRA is under the direction of Mrs. Rosalie Goodwin, general chairman who received her appointment direct from the Henry A. Wallace, honorary National Chairman, Florencia LaGuardia is National General Chairwoman.

Mrs. Goodwin announces the captains of the precincts who will be assisted by several block canvassers in each precinct as follows: Precinct No. 1, Miss Adele Richardson; No. 2, Mrs. Wilma Green; No. 3, Mrs. Joseph MacKinnon; No. 4, Mrs. Frank Spencer; No. 5, Mrs. J. R. Scallan; No. 6, Mrs. J. Craigliles James; No. 7, Mrs. B. Wilcox; No. 8, Mrs. Bud Baines; No. 9, Mrs. Thomas Schwartz.

The public will be asked to contribute money instead of actual food. The reason is most plausible; packing of various size packages and containers is very trying for the local workers, freight to New York is expensive; food purchased in quantity would be bought at quantity price. All money raised locally will be placed in the Sierra Madre Savings Bank and sent to Lee Marshall, executive director, 100 Maiden Lane, New York 7, N. Y.

On account of the extreme emergency, and short time allotted to making National arrangements each chairman has been asked to provide credentials for her own workers.

The California, Nevada and Arizona Division has a Western office in Los Angeles and may be reached by TUCKER 2952.

Posters have been placed about town with the slogan, "Will you Give Them 'They May Live'?" and containers placed in convenient public places to remind one that "The Food You Give May Mean They Live."

Community Fund Drive Continues

"The Community Fund Drive is responding very well," so stated Eugene Lunsford, chairman, "but it will be some time until the goal is completed." Many families interested in youth work have mailed their contributions in to the Sierra Madre Savings Bank. Robert Dodge, co-chairman, is sharing responsibility for the drive which is conducted by Kiwanis. Other local organizations are helping in the collection which was launched a week ago.

FIRE FLAMES

Too many calls spoil the trophy, and from the experience of the past two months, the firemen are sad to think that the long record of small fires is beginning to look like the beginning of the vice versa. The only thing that will prevent a future black mark on our enviable record is for us all to settle down and again become fire conscious. The source of practically every unwanted fire that occurs can be traced to someone's carelessness. If a lighted cigarette is allowed to drop into upholstery, a mattress or inflammable weeds a disastrous fire may result. If an outdoor fire becomes so large that a heavy ember can be carried far from the base of the fire, it is not the fault of the ember if it lands right smack in the middle of some very dry and old shingles or wild oats. If it stays there long enough without going completely out, a kind wind will come along and help it to incite more blaze. And then if the fire department is not notified in good time another ember will get a ride to foreign districts where it can also expand relations such as it learned at the last stop. If we

BABY TALK

By MAXINE BALLING

IF LITTLE ABERCROMBIE isn't house-broken yet, rush right over to the Balling Baby Shop for a $3.98 "Tottie Throne" or "Traineez Seat." You hook a little bracket inside the whachamacallit strap him in with the safety belt so he won't fall out or in, let him kick on the little foot board while you sit on the edge of the tub and read the free booklet on toilet training. Before you finish the booklet, presto... you don't need the booklet at all. It's just to keep YOU from interfering, and to remind you that it's true that a watched pot never boils.

ANOTHER interesting little seat with a safety belt is the "Auto Bye" which is dandy for shopping or vacation trips. It's heavy canvas and light metal, bent so that it slips down behind the seat cushion, making it easy for you to lift baby, seat and all right out and carry them into the house or restaurant. "Auto Bye" is $3.50.

CUTEST little beach outfits for boys have just come in from the Ed. E. Phillips Company of Los Angeles. They're hand-screened, pre-shrunk swim trunks and matching shirts in bright yellow, blue, green and red Tahitian patterns. The two-piece outfit is $4.95. White cotton sweaters are $1.50. (Many babies are allergic to wool).

AHA! the little rascal who shoves his dishes off the high chair has met his Waterloo... the "Tipnot" hot water dish. Hot water in the bottom section keeps his food warm, and a large rubber suction thing on the bottom anchors the dish, and I mean ANCHORS it! After he has struggled with it a couple times he just gives up and settles down to eating up the food so that he can see the pretty pictures on the bottom of the three sections of the dish. The outfit is $4.95, but it's worth it. Ray Baldwin of Arcadia said "I can't wait to see my youngster's face when he finds out he can't throw this on the floor!"

The Balling Baby Shop has just lots of interesting new things like that, and the address is 401½ South Myrtle, MONROVIA.

pile a small cupboard or room with trinkets, magazines, rags, doo funnies and hobbie snobs, there is a wonderful chance that the firemen will be called out before too long. That snoopy fireman who might come around is not picking on you. He is only trying to stop fires from getting started and if you will be but patient and kind, the poor guy will feel as though he is doing something good. There are so very few folks who like to have someone suggest that an improvement can be made about their premises and there are so very few who will admit they might be wrong. When a conscientious fireman, who is trying with heart and soul to do a job that is beneficial to the town, country and universe, meets someone who grabs his hand and says, "you fellows are sure doing a swell job and I'm with you 100 per cent," why there isn't much the guy can do but sit down, get his breath, and say God bless you. Such co-operative persons are a real blessing to the men of the fire department. Too many folks take suggestions too personally imagine they are being persecuted. That's wrong as far as our department is concerned. We love everybody. We only want to keep down fires.

The night fire calls bring out the usual sights and some of 'em are really pictures. Men who have left their beds to follow the fire wagons, still attired in pajamas, nightshirts or what have you, (my choice is pajamas, they keep the legs warmer) make a wonderful appearance. And some of the women who get in the way of the firemen! Oh brother, if they only knew, or maybe they do. At any rate, there are some conspicuous "get-ups" that should be given some consideration before being displayed. Most of our firemen are far from dapper, dressed in their makeshift fire fighting strips. At a recent fire, the Chief's striped pajamas covered with dark blue coveralls did not give him the appearance of any Apollo and darn well he knows it. Without his regular make-up, his friends hardly knew him. Other firemen were identified by their usual anxiety to be of some help and here and there they could be picked out of the crowd. George Norris and Vernon Udell were in and about the source of the fire as they usually are. From all appearances and the results of a "screwed up" hose lay, the firemen had lots of outside help. This affords an opportunity for us to ask people to please keep hands off equipment and hose until asked by one of the firemen. One of us pretend to one-millionth of what we would like to know about fire fighting, but there is an absolute certainty that if those who have not drilled with us endeavor to "take over" the procedure, there is bound to be a delay and a general mix-up. We still maintain a good record and have nothing to be ashamed of, so we will keep on trying to keep the FIRES OUT.

Who Is— WILL ROGERS, JR.

A graduate of Stanford University, majoring in International Economics, a successful newspaper publisher, a foreign war correspondent, member of Congress from the 16th District, resigning to take his place in the Army of the United States. During his term of office was a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee when he was sent on special mission to London during the blitz and upon his return took a leading part in setting up the War Relief Board. He and Mrs. Rogers are recognized leaders and active workers in the American fight to get justice for Palestine. As a veteran of World War II he led his Tank Destroyer Reconnaissance Platoon in advance of Patton's dash across France, serving 12 months in the European combat, fighting in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. Of his platoon of 21 men, four were killed and seven, including Rogers, wounded. As a war correspondent he covered the Spanish Civil War, the Jap invasion of Manchuria, in Moscow and Berlin during the Austrian Anschluss. This young Will Rogers is a statesman, the true son of an illustrious and revered father. We, you and I, all of us need his courage, experience and inherent love of humanity to serve us in our greatest law and policy making body, the Senate of the United States.

All Sierra Madreans no matter what they may think of me personally know me to be unselfish, honest and a seeker for truth and fact, wanting that which is best for all the people and as that person I ask that you vote as I shall on June 4th in one of the most serious decisions we shall be asked to make. Vote for Will Rogers, Jr., for U. S. Senate. We shall need him to lead the fight for right in the years ahead.

Aren't we the fortunate ones? Sez I with a loud croak. End of quote.

Citrus fruits are still in season. Apples and bananas—We Hope.

Now as to the Grocery Department—they aren't so happy. They said rather disgustedly that I might mention these items: Calumet small, whole, new Irish Potatoes, in cans of course; Loma Linda Vegetarian Beans; Van Camp's Chile Con Carne and Pork and Beans; also 4 lb. bags of Market Day Seedless Raisins. Give these to the kiddies in place of candy—more food value (and no candy!)

By the way, Mom attended a broadcast last week, "Meet the Missus." This was sponsored by Duff's Ready-Mix foods. We have a complete line of these products and they save both labor and materials—Waffle and pancake mix, muffin mix, gingerbread mix.

The question of the day was "How many times does a cow chew her cud?" Answer, 43,000 times. Mom is going to submit the question, "How many grains of sugar in a lb.?" Have you an answer?

The grocery department also has Pillsbury Pancake flour (makes double quick biscuits).

We are getting in a little more oleo—it lasts as long as 30 minutes sometimes!

In Business Highlights Mom read that "margarine would not be taken from the domestic market, despite the urgent foreign need." Margarine production is held down by a government quota based on a percentage of past production.

That was in the good old days, when we had butter, remember?

In the meat department I am asked to mention FRYERS, HENS and TURKEYS.

Pop was very fortunate in making a cheese connection so we have Kumin-ost, plain or with caraway; Edam; Gouda; Blue Moon; Gold-Rich aged Cheddar; and Swiss type cheese (you know the kind with the big holes). Also Arden's cream cheese in bulk, either plain or pimento.

In Betty's department I suggest . . . creamed turkey, with sherry, cooked navy beans with ham, and Chile beans with meat.

Joy dwells beneath an Irish roof; Heaven is not built of country seats. But queer little suburban streets. —Morley

Birthday

The accompanying picture of Mrs. Joanna Freebey of Los Angeles, who celebrated her 99th birthday last week, appeared in a recent issue of the Los Angeles Times.

MRS. JOANNA FREEBEY

Mrs. Freebey is the mother of Mrs. James L. Copeland, 215 N. Auburn, this city, and John Q. Copeland, 57 W. Mira Monte, is a grandson.

The Times stated that Mrs. Freebey purchased a copy of that newspaper on her first day in Los Angeles, February 19, 1883, still has the copy and has been reading the Times consistently for 63 years.

One of her two sons, Paul, was a Times printer from 1890 until his death in 1934. Mr. Copeland is in the Times employ, being their staff correspondent for the Pasadena area.

NOVENA IN HONOR OF ST. RITA CLOSING SUNDAY P. M.

The Closing of the Solemn Novena in honor of St. Rita will take place next Sunday afternoon, May 28, at 3 p.m., according to the Pastor, Fr. Leo Scheibel, C.P. A panegyric will be preached on the Saint, followed by blessing of the roses with the relic of St. Rita and distribution to those attending the Closing service. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be followed by individual blessing with the relic of St. Rita.

SUMMER CAMPS FOR BOY SCOUTS

Summer camp plans of the Boy Scouts were announced last Monday at the district meeting held at the home of W. A. Kinney, 695 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

Six camps of one week each are to be held at Camp San Antonio in June, July and August. One ten-day camp will be held in Cherry Valley, Catalina Island from August 10 to 20 for Senior Scouts only. As the Catalina camp is in a bad state of disrepair, due to neglect during the five years of war, announcements for the complete schedule there will be delayed for some time.

The Boy Scout Court of Honor will be held Monday evening, June 3, at the Congregational church, which the public is invited to attend.

Wed in Kansas City
To Make Home Here

Miss Helen Carter, of 3030 Oakland, Wichita, Kansas and John Stapp of 65 1/2 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre, Calif., were united in marriage in the Little Church of the West, located on the grounds of the Hotel Last Frontier, Las Vegas, Nevada, Monday, May 13.

Rev. A. C. Melton performed the ceremony before the altar decorated with potted-palms and lighted tapers.

The bride chose for her 4:00 wedding a stunning costume in kelly green with brown accessories. She wore a long spray corsage of white carnations tied with kelly green, and carried white tulle gloves.

The bride's attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Singleton of Arcadia, Mrs. Singleton wore an ensemble of Navy blue and white and a spray corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Stapp serves as the professional golfer at the Santa Anita Golf club in Arcadia, and is well-known in golfing circles.

Following a brief honeymoon the couple will reside in Sierra Madre.

G. Thompson Wed
At San Luis Obispo

The wedding of Miss Irene Price of San Luis Obispo to George Thompson of Sierra Madre has been announced. The double ring ceremony took place May 3rd in the Presbyterian church in San Luis Obispo before Rev. Dr. Frederick Hart.

Mrs. Thompson, a musician, has been a Red Cross stenographer while her husband is attending California Polytechnic School, completing his education.

The PTA Carnival to be held at the school Friday, June 7, promises to be a gala affair. Pony rides, fortune telling, puppet shows, fish bowls, games and many other attractions are being planned. Booths will be erected for cooked foods, needlework, hamburgers, hot dogs, ice cream and soft drinks. There will also be a doll and handcraft show; youngsters may exhibit their dolls, model airplanes and handwork for prizes. A vaudeville show in the evening will climax the fun. Watch for further details.

City Lags in Needed
Used Fat Savings

During April of 1945 Sierra Madre housewives turned in 1,142 lbs. of used fats; for April of this year the amount turned in was 1,097, a drop of 135 lbs. of fat. In addition to co-operating with the President's Famine Emergency Program by using less wheat, and fats and oils products, every woman can make a tangible contribution by saving and promptly turning over every drop of used fats to her meat dealer.

CHINA IS HUNGRY, TOO!

There has been so much talk about the starvation conditions threatening Europe that similar, and apparently worse, conditions in China have received little notice.

Of course, the hungry Chinese wouldn't object to the lack of publicity about their plight if they were getting a reasonable amount of food to ease the ache in their hollow stomachs. But it seems that they are not.

In fact, China has the biggest food problem of any nation and no less than 16 million of her people are in danger of starvation.

What makes conditions there doubly desperate is that China is now getting the short end of the deal in food just as she did in military supplies during the war. Dr. T. J. Tsiang, director general of the Chinese National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, says that his country needs 1 1/2 million tons of rice for survival. He asked UNRRA for only one-tenth of that amount or 150,000 tons. He got 80,000 tons. Last year he asked for 500,000 tons of fertilizer to make China self-sufficient on food. Only 10,000 tons were delivered.

Rice crops in Burma, Siam and Indo-China are reported to be good or above normal but rice shipments into China have been curtailed by the British, says Dr. Tsiang, in order to feed India and Malaya.

Certainly some means should be found to give the Chinese their fair share of the available rice in the Orient and to provide them greater aid through UNRRA. The Chinese are a patient, long-suffering people but they get hungry, too.

Stake and Prune Tomatoes For Big Yield, Small Space

A Heavier Yield for the Ground Space Occupied Is Given by Tomatoes Trained on a Fence, Arbor, or Stakes.

When tomatoes are grown to a single stem, tied to a stake or similar support, the maximum crop can be harvested for the space occupied, though the yield for each plant is less than that of plants allowed to spread naturally on the ground.

Staking and pruning plants to a single stem is therefore a good way to grow tomatoes in a small garden. Single stem plants can be spaced a foot apart, and double stem plants 21 inches apart, while plants that lie on the ground require four feet each way.

This applies to varieties of normal vine growth, which are the only kind that should be staked and pruned. So-called determinate varieties, of which the stems stop growing after they reach a certain length, while the plant devotes all its energies to ripening the fruit which has set, should never be pruned, and get no benefit from staking, but they may be planted as closely as 18 inches apart, and allowed to spread on the ground. They bear a good early crop, but over a shorter season than the older, later varieties.

Keeping tomato plants pruned and tied to stakes or a fence needs constant attention. At the joint where each leaf grows on the main stem, a branch will develop, and this must be cut, pinched off before it is four inches long, otherwise its removal may weaken the plant. If allowed to grow, secondary branches will develop from it, and soon all effort to keep the plant within bounds will have to be abandoned. A few days' neglect of pruning may spoil the plants.

To grow a two-stem plant, select one branch coming from the main stem 10 inches above the surface, and allow that to grow. Both main stem and branch will have to be pruned regularly. Single stem plants can be supported by a heavy cord stretched from a suitable tall support, and anchored to the ground near the plant. The stem as it grows can be twisted about the cord.

Two-stem plants may be tied with soft twine, strips of cloth, raffia or special ties made of wire imbedded in paper strips. Use a loose loop around the stem, to avoid constriction, or cutting.

Tomatoes require full sun and regular watering. When the soil is allowed to dry out, with fruit set, a black decay spot known as "black-end rot" may develop on the fruit. Watering during dry spells will prevent this. When fruit begins to mature, plant food worked into the soil around the plant using a tablespoonful at a time, will help produce more and larger fruit.

Tomato roots spread out near the surface and should never be disturbed. Never cultivate deep enough to touch them; a heavy mulch of straw or lawn clippings about each plant is better than cultivation, and helps keep the soil moist.

Lee Shippey Writes Of Sailing Delights

Lee Shippey, well known Los Angeles Times columnist, residing in Sierra Madre, occasionally utilizes his column to tell of interesting anecdotes in his own home, using the name of Gregory Seymour, instead of his own. His boys recently wrote a communication to him, that he was using his family as guinea pigs, to tell of escapades perhaps committed by some other boys, but ascribed to them or exaggerated conditions used with poetic license.

Whatever the case may be, Lee's many friends here are always interested in his fine column. The following appeared in Sunday's issue:

Gregory Seymour has decided that hereafter the joys of yachting will not be for him—unless he is invited to sail on a boat one doesn't have to ride bare-back.

A SAIL! A SAIL!

Frank Seymour has been crazy about boats ever since he was knee high to a starchion. In his middle teens he often spent a whole evening drawing pictures of or plans for sailboats. Three years of military service did not change him. The day after he got home he went to Balboa and saw a sailboat he could buy. Though he lives 60 miles from Balboa he bought it, along with a trailer on which to transport it. Immediately his brothers lost all interest in such mundane things as earning a living or doing any work except on the boat. They repainted it, put on new sails and showed an eagerness to make it look trim which they never had shown in regard to their lawn and hedge.

Then they tried it at Alamitos Bay. To an ignoramus like Greg sea water looks the same everywhere, but the discriminating boys evidently found it varied greatly in different localities. After sailing successfully in Alamitos Bay they had to try it in Balboa, then at Del Mar, then at San Diego, and finally at Ensenada. They came home glowing—with pride and sunburn. The boat had proved an international success. It had sailed just as well at Ensenada as at Alamitos!

"You must come with us next time, Pop," they urged. "Golly! It's fun!"

LUXURIOUS EASE
 For many years Greg enviously has been reading of the joys of yachting. Sailing suggested luxury, ease and utter relaxation. Frank's boat was only an 18-foot sloop, but Greg made no mental calculation. It would be nice to take a day off and relax completely.

The nearest water would have suited Greg, but the kids wished to show the boat to ex-Lt. Col. Sponholz in San Diego, who was a pal to boys—and a member of the Yacht club.

Not till they launched the boat did Greg realize ease and relaxation were going to be scarce. Amidships was a slot about two feet wide, two feet deep and six feet long flanked on each side by a foot and one-half of deck in front of it was about eight feet and behind it about four feet of deck, with no railing or even a wrinkle to keep one from sliding off. The bottom of the mainsail was held taut by a boom, apparently named for what it did to heads. Every time a sneak breeze hit the sail the boat, it seemed to Greg, was saved from turning turtle only by a miracle and his fervent prayer. And about once every 15 seconds the boom swung around, looking for heads it might crack. After his second crack on the head Greg named the boom the Louisville Slugger.

FAREWELL REFLECTIONS

The boys stayed on the decks, what there was of them, clinging like barnacles as the boat rode first on one side, then on the other. But Greg kept his feet in the slot, gripped its sides with both hands and spent his entire time salaaming and kowtowing to the boom. The main trouble was he had no eyes in the back of his head. The boom would swing over him from port to lee and, if he managed to duck it, immediately would swing back and crack his head just as a bat cracks a baseball. Never before had Greg taken bending exercises so continuously and so long.

Greg began wishing he'd led a better life. He felt there was small hope he ever would return from that trip. Life was just one boom-dodge after another, one near-miss after another as the boat trembled on the edge of turning over. He had no time to look about or do anything but duck, duck, duck, but the boat seemed utterly out of control and getting worse every instant.

Then Frank yelled, "Gee! Pop, ain't it swell out here beyond the Point?"

That was the last straw for Greg. His youngest son, in whom he had placed high hopes, had lost his reason.

RELAXING BUSILY
 To Greg's amazement they never quite turned over, and got back to the clubhouse unharmed except by sunburn.

"Don't you feel all relaxed now?" asked Frank eagerly.

Greg saw a weighing machine and stepped on it.

"Yes," he agreed, "I relaxed so completely I lost seven pounds."

JUDGE W. BYRNE SEEKS ELECTION

Evidence of support from widely divergent economic and civic sources throughout the county for the election of Judge William M. Byrne to Superior Court office No. 10 has been forthcoming in recent days, according to the Byrne-for-Judge Committee of bar, labor and civic leaders.

Judge Byrne, native Californian, former railroad engineer and member of the State Legislature for six terms, was appointed to the Los Angeles Municipal Court by Gov. Warren in 1943 and was elected to the bench without opposition in 1945.

Buying Dollars Today For Delivery Tomorrow

Parents teach their children to buy food and clothing which will be suitable for the need—will do the job that has to be done.

Your daughter would not think of buying a sun-suit to wear if she were going skiing in the snow at Big Pines. Much as any boy may like candy, he knows that a diet of chocolates will never develop him into an All-American.

Why not teach our children that some day they will need a New Source of Income, because Death, Disability or Old Age will Create that Need? Also, why not explain to them that they can buy merchandise which will provide income, just as they buy food or clothing? Why not make certain they understand that when they invest money in any investment to take care of tomorrow's needs they are simply Buying Merchandise—BUYING DOLLARS TODAY, FOR DELIVERY TOMORROW?

I am sure you will agree that if an investment for tomorrow is to be a good investment, it must do these five things—regardless of depression—or prosperity.

“In good times—or—bad—any investment must:

1. Guarantee to Yield a Definite Income when EARNED INCOME STOPS.
2. Guarantee to Yield a Definite Income as long as we live and need that income.
3. Guarantee to Yield a Definite Income as long as our wives live and need income.
4. Guarantee to Yield a Definite Income to our children as long as they are dependent upon that investment for income.
5. Guarantee to Yield a Definite Income regardless of the ability—or lack of ability—of ourselves or our wives or our children, to manage or supervise that investment.

If we, as parents, can teach our children to use this Simple Five-point Yardstick of Measurement on their Investments, then the dollars they buy today WILL BE THERE when they are needed for delivery—tomorrow.

Tidbits by Type

George Jean Nathan, in introducing the world premiere showing of his rechristened Romeo and Juliet, "The Avon Flows," which opened last week at the Pasadena Playhouse, urged "those who cry havoc when anyone dares to meddle with the classics, to leave the theatre after the first act, which should not unduly discommode you." Two were seen to take his advice on the third night. Some of the rest of us stayed for our tickets' worth and found the experience of the adapted Shakespearean line a stimulating treat of the wits, to say the least. Many of the lines cause pin-point reactions of hearty laughter. Some, from the more style and thought, effect a more contemplative amusement. For example, Berest is a thoroughly excellent if despicable Tybalt. Nurse Mary Whaley and Tailor Marvin Press put everything possible into and add a thing or two to their clever though minor roles. Paul Langton as Romeo and Emily Lawrence as Juliet, with a difficult turnabout from the heavy to the light, one leaves with a feeling of wanting to read the play and again to reread Shakespeare's. It is a new adventure in the sublime-ridiculous.

The Lee Shippey party seemed scarcely "discommode." Incidentally, I understand that Lee, in addressing the Camp Fire Girls recently, assured them that though he was prohibited for natural reasons, from actively participating in their organization, he was still all for 'em if they would supply him with daughter-in-laws. You have no doubt noticed that his Times column has been promoted from Leaside to Leaside o' L. A.

The "Adobe" is sprouting eating facilities. Sitting in the kitchen aroma of Clara's good cooking and watching the Suman pottery parade, with the mountains for a backdrop, is soon to be a thing of the past. With dining and fountain rooms being completed for increased service, it's goodbye to Clara's over-the-stove smile but hello to more townspeople for meals. The finishing touch is forecast for next week, and the town can look for a charming, top-notch eating place. Note the doorway framed with discarded railroad ties and the old French carved cornice.

At the News Stand counter I overheard an order for a piece of wistaria pie. The waitress promptly explained that the menu only provided apple, lemon and apricot. The customer was happy to select the apple when she was finally assured that it was Wistaria Bakery-made.

To Avoid Penalty Register Firearms

All persons owning or in possession of fire arms which come under the National Firearms Act are again warned that it is illegal to hold these weapons unless they have been registered with the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Federal Bureau of International Revenue, 902 Subway Terminal Building, Los Angeles.

These include machine guns, semi-automatic guns, fully automatic pistols, or any type of gun that will expel more than one shot or bullet with a single pull of the trigger. It also includes rifles and shotguns with barrels less than 18 inches in length and all firearms equipped with a silencer or muffler, and is aimed at preventing firearms such as described from falling into the hands of gangsters, racketeers, bank robbers and other criminals.

All weapons of these types brought into the country as trophies by soldiers are included in this request.

OFFICIAL REGISTRATION

Compiled records from the Secretary of State, Frank M. Jordan, shows Los Angeles County to have a total registration of 1,761,608. Of this number 1,027,988 are registered as Democrats; 621,461, Republicans; 8,636, Prohibition; 2,456, miscellaneous; 96,067, declined to state.

FAMOUS EXPERT TALKED AT TUES. MASONIC DINNER

The Tuesday evening Masonic dinner was a success in every way. The friends and families of Lodge No. 408 enjoyed a delicious roast beef dinner. The tables were very spring like with showers of yellow cosmos and acacia branches.

The speaker, J. Clark Sellers, introduced by John Buchan, Master, gave one of the most interesting talks heard by a Sierra Madre audience. Mr. Sellers is an authority on questioned documents. He reviewed the Lindbergh case and many other famous cases. He came through the courtesy of Grover Summers, Court Reporter of Department 41.

21 Food Boxes Shipped by PTA To Holland

Everyone attending the PTA meeting last Thursday brought articles of foodstuffs in answer to the appeal made by the PTA for food. Twenty-one boxes of food were packed and shipped to Holland. Mrs. John Fergus in charge of the collections, spoke of the desperate need for help in war-torn countries and explained how the food would be distributed. Mrs. Rosalie Goodwin, local chairman for the National Emergency Food Collection, also spoke concerning the drive recently launched in Sierra Madre and asked the help of the PTA in promoting a drive in the school. Mrs. Fergus was appointed to distribute boxes in the classrooms for the collection of money which the children will be asked to earn. Officers elected at the meeting to serve on the board during the coming year were duly installed by Mrs. Kenneth A. Learned, first Vice-President of the Pasadena PTA: Mrs. Gordon McMillan, president; Mrs. Joseph Worthington, first vice-president; Mrs. John Fergus, second vice-president; Mrs. Clarence Ware, recording secretary; Mrs. John Conzelmann, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ray Tarup, treasurer; Mrs. C. L. Young, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Sam McElfresh, historian.

Local Legion Team Wins from Azusa

The Sierra Madre American Legion softball team won in a Frank Merriwell finish in the ninth inning Friday evening when the team was tied at the beginning of the ninth. Richard LaLone walked and Billy Kiggins knocked out a double, bringing in the winning run. The highlight of the game was Earl LaLone's catch of a line drive in the 9th, which prevented Azusa from breaking the tie. Billy Kiggins did the pitching with Red Burt, catcher; Earl LaLone, 1b; Bud McRoberts, 2b; Bill Evans, 3b; Don Miller, ss; Richard LaLone, lf; Adolph Sanchez, cf; Allan Robertson, rf; Sub. Miner Harkness, in the sixth, came through with a hit, scoring the tying run. Next game Azusa at Covina Friday evening. Waverly Pratt, District Manager, has called a meeting of the managers of all 10 teams in the League at the Legion Headquarters in the City Hall for this evening.

NOT TOO EARLY FOR PRE-SCHOOL CHECK-UP

Physical examinations for children entering school for the first time this fall should be arranged early in the summer, suggests the bureau of maternal and child hygiene for the Los Angeles county health department.

Summer round-ups for pre-school children are being planned in many communities by the local Parent-Teacher associations. All parents who are not able to avail themselves of this service, have their children checked over by their private physician.

Physical defects, teeth, should also come in for a pre-school examination. Immunization and vaccinations, if not done by the family physician, can be arranged for at the Monrovia health center this summer.

WANT TO BE A SKY COMMUTER?

Are you dreaming of the day when you will get a "lift" every morning in your private helicopter from your back yard to the roof of your office building, and vice versa every evening?

Well, you would give a pretty good imitation of Rip Van Winkle if you slept until that dream could be brought to realization. Aviation experts believe that any general use of helicopters is at least five years (and a pot full of money) away. Thus far, only one manufacturer of this type of aircraft has been licensed by the C.A.A. and his "sky sedan" costs a "mere" $46,000. That much money, we hardly need say, is an amount which few commuters ever have the pleasure of meeting personally, or getting personal with.

DO YOU RECALL?

The County Horticultural Commission has ordered that every citrus tree and orchard in the Sierra Madre district be sprayed with cyanide fumes in a fumigation campaign against the red scale. A number of citizens who paid liberally last spring to have their orchards sprayed by an itinerant pest exterminator claiming complete riddance, are protesting that if the Commission can order such fumigation, it should likewise protect the citizens against irresponsible fumigators.

Charged with poisoning four horses belonging to Kay Takeota, Japanese team contractor, L. K. Lessley of this city is in the county jail while the evidence against him is being completed by the county attorney's office.

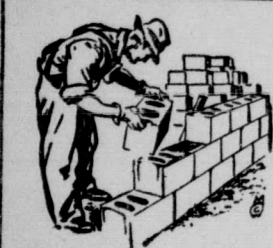

Howard, the 16-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Evans, was fatally burned when his clothing caught fire from a small stove near which he was playing. His mother was seriously burned in her attempts to save the baby's life.

The proposed Sierra Madre Canyon road, also known as Santa Anita highway, into the Angeles National Forest will be begun within the next month, following the completion of right-of-way with the Lannan estate of this city. The County Supervisors recently donated $135,000 for this project to help relieve unemployment in this vicinity.

The County Flood Control Bureau, at the direction of the County Supervisors, has associated itself with engineers of this city, Arcadia and Oakwood, to build up water storage in the underground reservoir here while helping the county to dispose of storm waters of the Big Santa Anita and Sierra Madre canyons.

Boy Scout citizens appointed to a Boy Scout Community committee for supervising activities of the two troops here are: Lee Shippey, Arthur Evans and George I. Poulter.

1400 lots have been posted for weed clearing.

The local Legion ball team christened the newly lighted school ball field Friday night with a 7 to 2 win over the strong Pasadena Legion team. Scheduled to play 5 of their 7 games on the home diamond.

A committee of volunteer firemen and Planning Commission members have decided to add stone grills and restrooms in the Bailey Canyon section, being turned into a city park by the fire force.

Dean Arnold G. H. Bode, new minister of the Episcopal church, church, and his family were honored recently with a dance and reception.

The wedding of Marie Ernestine Jenkins and Gordon G. McMillan, head of the Police Department, has been announced for fall.

Sierra Madre will have a summer health school to enable undernourished and physically deficient children to receive expert health aid. Tuition will be $1.00 a week.

Harold Keltz, 397 N. Baldwin, student at Pasadena Junior College, is winner of the first prize in California high schools for feature story writing in the National High School Awards.

Cleverly counterfeited dimes and quarters are being circulated in quantities in this vicinity.

With the recent installation of the Vis-a-Film identification system in the police department, Sierra Madre is now guarded against possibility of lawbreakers from nearby metropolitan centers using the quiet seclusion of the town as refuge.

Summer recreation plans: Swimming at the Canyon Park plunge starting this week-end; baseball almost every night; chess tournament in June; fishing already under way; tennis tournament being arranged; night horse shoe games followed by installation of two 1000 watt reflectors at City Park. (Ed. note: May meant summer that year!)

1000 children from Los Angeles schools enjoyed a day of nature study on Sturtevant Trail.

AROUND AND ABOUT

By EDWARD LLOYD VOORHEES

CENTRAL ENGLAND—Some more observations on Oxford. One gathers from perennial globe trotters and contemporary historians including Gilbert Chesterton—that English inns are not what they used to be. Once celebrated for their warm expansive hospitality, their genial and solicitous management, their well stocked larder and cellar, their well trained servants properly concerned with giving perfect service, the inn of England were the warm, bright spots to which travelers looked forward—and back. Before the day of the motor car, the chief inn in the town was frequently the regular destination for the stage-coach, the mail-bag, and the tally-ho party. These miniature caravansaries were colorfully individualized by such names as the Cheshire Cheese, the Mermaid Tavern, the Turk's Head; and by an inn-keeper as individual and memorable as those names and symbols. And with rare exceptions his middle names were Comfort-and-Plenty, and as Chaucer said of the country franklin, (we modernize the lines):

"I snowed in his house of meat and drink,
Of all the dainties that men could think."

But for the last 20 years one has been looking for a hand that since World War I, most of this picture has either disappeared, or been curtailed by lowered supply and increased demand. Every war must be paid for by a lowering of standards and quality, and even human nature and courtesy can be worn threadbare by the insatiable demands of hundreds where only dozens were planned and built for. And that is the way it was in England between World Wars I and II, and to visualize a similar condition we have only to look around the over-crowded sections of our own country today, resulting from the population shift of World War I. Personally, I have no complaints about English inns. They offered what they had, which I found sufficient; and I suspect that those veteran travelers who reported a new and regretted "take it or leave it" attitude in English public hospitality were simply being nostalgic rather than realistic. And even were there an endless abundance of supplies and accommodation space—which there was not—mass production can never give quite the quality and satisfaction rendered by actual personal service from the host to the guest.

At Oxford, had I been rolling in preferred dividends and on my honeymoon, I should probably have put up at that famous inn, the Mitre. However, as I had arrived at neither of those states of felicity and relative security, I contented myself with registering at the Clarendon, where I had a comfortable room and, next morning, the usual substantial English breakfast at "from 10s." Having arrived at 2:30 of the afternoon, before I set out to see the colleges, I was intrigued by a neighboring sign, "Ye Old Oak Tree," to enter and fortify myself for the round of sightseeing by a spot of food and drink, which bucked me up mightily for my merely impressionistic round of "the High" and some of the colleges. I briefly visited, besides those previously mentioned, portions of several other colleges, I saw the buildings and gardens of Exeter, with its great fig vine along the wall; and at Jesus College the dining room—always a place of distinction, beauty, and ample space in an English college—where I noted curious decorations carved upon the columns; and in the college chapel I examined a Bible in the Welsh language from which the lesson of the day is read to the students, of whom 60 per cent, I was told, are from Wales.

There is disagreement among the word-doctors (etymologists) as to whether Brasenose College derives its name from the great brass knocker in the form of a nose which adorns Brasenose Hall, or from the Latin brasinium brew-house. The Nose was formerly a knocker on the door of a house in Stamford to which some of the more studious undergraduates of Brasenose had migrated for a time in 1334 to escape the annoyance of the fighting factions then fashionable at Oxford. It is thought by some that this obviously ancient relic may have come from Brasenose originally, to be attached by the students to the Stamford house, which was also christened Brasenose Hall for the period of the exile, and certain it is that in 1890 the Nose was brought from Stamford and fastened to the door of Brasenose Hall at Oxford. Thus we see that the Nose at Brasenose is one of those "tremendous trifles" that contribute to that vast plexus of custom, legend, prejudice, sentiment, and affection which time weaves around all institutions and calls "tradition."

Brasenose College affords one of the many striking examples of the blending of various orders and periods of architecture which one sees everywhere at Oxford. Its handsome gateway tower, its main front, and the first quadrangle—except the upper story, it is said—is in the solid, creneated style of the early Tudors, the era of the College's foundation in 1509 and reminiscent of fortifications. The hall and the chapel, on the other hand, built in the mid-seventeenth century, arrest the attention by their attempt to combine Gothic with classical Greek lines, an experiment attributed to the famous architect of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, Sir Christopher Wren; and to complete this mélange of "traditional" architecture, the buildings which face the High Street are strictly "modern."

But only to a purist or a pedant does all this mixture appear as bad as it sounds—except when transported to an American college campus, which is another matter—for it provides at Oxford a certain harmony with the fact that the University itself is eclectic and has drawn its spiritual and cultural life from all ages and philosophies, whether Christian or pagan, for upwards of 800 years. And this eclecticism in study and ideas has, in turn, preserved there a spirit of free and tolerant inquiry in the pursuit of Truth, which her champions have valiantly guarded against the withering blight of Philistinism, if not always of pedantry. Nor does lack of popular "success" discourage "movements" at Oxford. The many defeats of her idealists have earned for her—"whispering from her towers the last enchantments of the Middle Ages"—the description, "home of lost causes, and forsaken beliefs, and unpopular names, and impossible loyalties." Yet each succeeding generation puts forth a fresh crop of Masters, "dons," and undergraduates continue to form, as it were, an endless bucket brigade to pass on the living water of ideas—mingled with decorum and a certain easily recognizable air of quietly being his own master, wherever an Oxford man is found. And that "wherever" covers, be it recalled, an area "upon which the sun never sets." You will usually find, also, that the Oxford man is a good conversationalist, for he is not only well-informed on a variety of subjects but he likewise knows and uses the laws of logic to back up his points with urbanity and wit—and I don't mean "wisecracks." And he is frequently, though not always, like Hamlet's "poor Yorick," "a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy." If he seems at times, to us Americans, a bit "uppity" in his self-assurance, let us ask ourselves if we, given 500 more years of growing power and prestige and "culture," will be less so—or more.

BURKHALTER

Burkhalter

can be depended on to represent the entire 20th District, not just a few groups in selected areas. Burkhalter has never been too busy in his six years of legislative experience to attend to the needs of his people.

Burkhalter

is an able legislator. He has brought millions to the Valley for Flood Control, Highways, Dams, Bridges, and other Public Works Programs that will improve Southern California and provide work.

Burkhalter

favours legislation that will benefit the general public and not the chosen few. He says "Retain price control until ceilings can be SAFELY raised or removed." He demands that wartime imposed taxes that work hardships on the general public be either reduced or removed.

Burkhalter

is a man of the people. He is a War Veteran, a Legionaire, a member of Lankersham F.A.M. Past Worlby Patron, Lankersham Chapter O.E.S., Knights Templar, 32nd Degree Mason, Al Malakiah Shrine, F.O.E., Kiwanis and other clubs. He has been a home owner, church member, and resident of the 20th District for 28 years.

HE IS ELECTABLE.

'Vet' Points Out Reasons Why GI's Can't Buy Homes

Veterans are not rolling in money. General impression seems to be to the contrary. Public opinion concerning the GI Bill, to put it mildly, is confused.

Under the GI Bill the veteran is supposed to have his home problem solved, a job assured and educational bills paid.

One returned corporal put it this way:

"With my back pay and mustering out pay, I came home after two years overseas with $700.

"With the $700 I faced the problems of getting married, buying civilian clothes, a car of a sort, finding a place to live, then buying furniture for the house and, in the first year, setting aside $500 for a new comer in the family.

"I did all of these things, because I got my old job back. But I can't do the many things veterans are supposed to do. I can't buy a home. People ask me why not, under the GI Bill. I get $200 a month and I'm not kicking about that. But under the GI Bill the bank simply will not loan $10,000 with which to buy a five room house on my salary. Most people forget the $4000 provided by the GI Bill for the down payment on a house, is still a loan upon which principal and interest must be paid, along with taxes, fire insurance and so on.

"I'm not kicking. I was lucky. I'm renting and paying installments on my furniture. In a year or two, I'll be in the clear. Maybe the price of houses will come down. Anyway, I'm not in a hurry to rush out, buy a lot, start building next Tuesday. I couldn't if I wanted to.

"Most veterans want places to rent. They'd like to buy, but they can't."

Fact HARD HEARING
By Gordon P. Felts
Hearing Specialist

Everyone should be familiar with the important facts about hearing deficiency, particularly those who are themselves having trouble with their hearing or have relatives or friends who are confronted with this problem. Prevention of course, is the best way to keep our ears "fit," and equally important, once impairment sets in, is that Gordon P. Felts prompt and intelligent measures be taken to correct and stop the progression of hearing loss.

There are many causes of hearing loss, cold, catarrhal conditions, fevers, abscesses, nerve or brain lesions, ruptured ear drums, accidents and various other diseases. Hearing impairment is insidious at the onset. It usually comes gradually and stealthily, and frequently secures a firm hold on the individuals before they realize the true nature of the situation. Most hearing impairment is progressive, that is, it grows worse with time.

Much can be said about hearing losses and what to do about it, but the best thing to do is to see your doctor at once when hearing loss is apparent and then take the steps he recommends to help it. Many people today are getting valuable assistance with the use of a GOOD hearing aid. Many improvements have been made in the hearing aid of today. The new post-war "All-In-One" Telex, made by the originators of the wearable vacuum tube hearing aid, is the highest quality, most modern high fidelity electronic hearing aid available today. It is the one hearing aid that is helping thousands of hard of hearing people to hear with clarity, ease, comfort and satisfaction. I am always happy to demonstrate this new post-war Super Telex, show YOU what it will do for YOU, without obligation—in your own home, at your convenience. Write or telephone for appointment to Gordon P. Felts, 18 Vista Circle Drive, Sierra Madre, C.U. 5-4506.

More "Facts" soon. Look for them.

POLICE BLOTTER

Owner of a stray pheasant may have same by calling at the home of Mr. Phillips, 383 E. Sierra Madre Blvd. . . A "check-passer" operating in town a few days ago. He may come back. Know your endorser. . . Mrs. Floyd, of 430 N. Mountain trail, is sick and tired of cleaning up after someone leaving rubbish in front of her garage. . . A sick man rushed to his home by the coppers. . . A house fight resulted in the arrest of the husband. . . Another of the same on the same day, except this husband was not arrested, nor was the other half. Neither would file against the other. . . Ranger McLeod at the Santa Anita Ranger Station, reported a boy there with a head wound from a fall over the mountain side. This is getting to be a regular Sunday occurrence. The boy was brought to the office of Doctor M. H. A. Peterson where he was taken care of. . . An unexpected arrival of a son from an out-of-town school found the house locked and folks away. In an attempt to enter through a window, he was caught in the act by the police. Explanations made everything OK. Family squabbles must be in the air. Here is another. Woman claims her husband beat her. . . A dog fight in the neighborhood of Sycamore Place brings the officers of the law. . . Holding a metal pipe an elderly man threatened one of his apartment neighbors. Found that such tactics do not go over so well with the law. This thing of "bluffing" people while holding a deadly weapon is a serious matter and will not be tolerated. . . Jim Heasley refused to name a prominent woman of our town who ridiculed the way the traffic laws are enforced. She claimed the method as very humorous, and then added "Perhaps I shouldn't say anything or else you'll get me the next time I do something wrong." Jim said that is just about typical of many Americans. "Get the other fellow, but don't bother ME." And for this week, perhaps we had better hunt a hole and crawl into it. Thirty.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

Can Burkhalter, candidate for Congressman in the June Primaries, be elected . . . The answer is "YES" if he is nominated.

So thinks a liberal, well informed and intelligent Democratic leader, and because of this conviction, Virginia T. Steinberger, member of the Executive Board of the Democratic State Committee which body unanimously endorsed Everett Burkhalter at a recent meeting, asks that you read this quotation from the Daily-News of Tuesday, May 14th under the caption "Congressional roll-call, 20th District . . . Everett Burkhalter, Democrat. It is important that every Congressional District in California be served in Washington by a man who will carry out the progressive ideas of a majority of the voters. Burkhalter has proven by his service in the State Assembly (3 terms) that he can be depended on to do that. . . Moreover, Burkhalter is electable. It is unfortunate that the liberal vote in the 20th District will be split. . . Burkhalter CAN be elected if he is nominated."

Take the time to look into the records of the several candidates. In 1944 Burkhalter drew the largest vote ever given to a member of that body, of any party. He served in the U. S. Navy in the first World War and has been an untiring worker for the cause of the veteran, his efforts in the Veterans Farm & Home Loans and Employment, Rehabilitation, Vocational Training and Education Committee won him appointment to the American Legion State Legislative Com. in 1945. He is a champion of the small business man (the forgotten man) and is worthy of your confidence. He is a maker of policies not an opportunist FOLLOWING popular public opinion and will not glow into a rosy tint after elected, nor is he the "bright boy" but an honest, trustworthy, solid citizen who will represent us truly. It is because I know this to be true, that I ask you to think well on these things after which you will vote for Burkhalter. (Signed) Virginia T. Steinberger, Exec. Bd. Demo. State Cent. Com., Ch. Demo. Women's Study Clubs, (National)

Water History

This Rancho first acquired by Reid was without cost; he sold to Dalton after seven years at 15¢ per acre, who in turn sold, and again it was sold two or three times, until in 1872 it (Santa Anita Tract of 8500 acres) was bought by H. Newman of Los Angeles at $10 per acre and Lucky Baldwin purchased it in 1875 at $23.50 per acre; Baldwin sold Sierra Madre Tract to N. C. Carter for $40 per acre and today it sells as high as twice that per front foot in town lots.

It has generally been stated that the 1100 acres comprising the Sierra Madre Tract was bought from Baldwin by N. C. Carter, but the records show only $45 acres came from Baldwin; 108 acres from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company (in northern part of city); and 150 acres from Levi Richardson (in northeast part of city, in what is commonly known as Churchill Ranch and Cypress Court), making in all 1103 acres.

In looking over some of the early surveys, of what now comprises these two purchases, which are dated 1873, it is noted that a witness "corner" mark in two cases is "the corner of Mrs. Richardson's house," in one case and a "corner of Mrs. Bailey's house" in another. Hence must accept as a fact that these two houses, both still standing, one at the head of Michillinda Ave. and the other in Cypress Court, were here in 1873 and of course the first houses in what later became Sierra Madre. Levi Richardson was living there probably ten years prior to that time, from other data observed. One notation reads "Owing to the rough and broken character of the ground it is impracticable to continue the line farther north, so we quit and went home." One witness corner was "An oak 32 inches in diameter." The Bailey house was later acquired by a Mrs. Learned.

One of the most interest-absorbent discoveries is a diary kept day by day for the years 1871, 72, 73 by George B. Islip, for whom Mount Islip takes its name, with an altitude of 8300 feet and situated just north of Crystal Lake. This diary was kept in a ledger or cash book of the Los Angeles Water Works in the 1850's, and in some way fell into Islip's hands and for three years he records his every day life. It reveals the fact he probably conducted the first pack train outfit on the Mount Wilson trail, for he had some 10 or a dozen jacks, he called them, and mules, making daily trips up and down the Canyon trail freighting fence posts, pickets and shakes for valley users. He attempted homesteading a section on the trail at what afterwards was known as halfway house or Orchard Camp, where he built cabins, shops, corals and established quite an orchard, planting out all sorts of fruit trees, berries and had an apiary of several hives and chickens, etc. Eventually he deserted the Canyon life and the homestead reverted to the government, later to be acquired by a Mr. Strain.

When N. C. Carter purchased the 845 acres from Baldwin he received a half interest in all the water rights in the Little Santa Anita Canyon, Baldwin retaining the other half interest. Because of there being two seasons in California of rain fall, it was necessary to use water from storage during the dry season and it soon became evident there was not enough water in the stream to meet the needs of the increasing population and the extended use of the land for fruit culture, so a tunnel was driven in the side of the mountain on the east side of the creek.

When Mr. Carter began selling off acreage to newcomers and home seekers he found it necessary to include water rights with every parcel of land sold, which soon brought about a complicated ownership of said water, so a Company was formed and known as Sierra Madre Water Company, (a mutual, non-profit organization). This Company filed articles of incorporation October 20, 1882 with capital stock of $11,000 and 1100 shares, one share of stock being allotted to every acre of land owned. The following were named as Directors or Trustees for the first year, N. C. Carter, W. A. Spalding, E. T. Pierce, N. H. Hosmer, Mrs. J. E. White, A. D. Trussell and M. J. Gregory. Reservoirs and pipe lines were constructed to serve the stock holders with the water so necessary to sustain life and produce crops. In time dry cycles appeared in the amount of rain fall and the Canyon stream dried up and the only source of supply was the tunnel which, too, failed to produce enough water for the needs. It began to be a sort of paraphrase of "Water, water every where and not a drop to drink" by the plaint "Water, water no where and everybody wants a drink."

Water was flowing through the pipes 24 hours of every day but in such limited amount that every user had to store his share in his own containers in order to have it for use when needed. Tanks were erected on derricks at a high point of each home or ranch and many even used their sinks and hand vessels for storage and it has been said this water many times was stolen, because of its scarcity. In 1906 when I came to Sierra Madre many of these storage tanks still remained as evidence of former days, while today 1946 only one or two still may be seen.

The Water Company felt the great need of increasing the supply of water and counselled with "Lucky" Baldwin regarding the boring of another tunnel and on the west side of the stream bed. Mr. Baldwin was adamant and finally refused to participate financially in this attempt to increase the water supply. However, necessity compelled the Water Company to undertake the plan. Upon its completion a material increase in the water supply was their reward. In time Mr. Baldwin claimed the West tunnel was cause for the East tunnel (in which he had a half interest, and no interest in the other) falling off in its flow of water, and brought suit against the Water Company for adjudication. Mr. Baldwin loved the courts, or at least he seemed to for he was almost constantly at law on one basis or another.

I wish to quote from the memoirs of Dr. Norman Bridge his account of the Court action above mentioned. Quote "After our first year in Sierra Madre I became the president of the Water Company of the village and soon found that we had on our hands a dispute over water rights and business with our near neighbor at Santa Anita, "Lucky" Baldwin. (Continued Next Week)

Miss Hilda Humphries of this city and sister, Mrs. Alfred H. Elwood of Pasadena; Mrs. Mabel Olsen Medley of Glendale, whose father had one of the first businesses in the town, shoe manufacturing, and his son Henry fell heir to the business and conducted the shoe store here until his death about a year ago; Mrs. John W. Hart of San Marino, sister of Mrs. Bowen, who also came here in 1886; Mr. Rhoades was an early settler, though not in Sierra Madre proper. His father built the first hotel, outside of Los Angeles, in the county, located in Sierra Madre Villa, just west and north of the Hastings Ranch. His parents came here in 1874 and started building the hotel in 1877; Mayor Milton Steinberger, born in Sierra Madre in 1886, if not the first male child born in Sierra Madre, was at least close; Miss Lulu A. Bixby of Pasadena, belongs to one of the oldest families, living for many years in the house now occupied by W. A. Evans on West Montecito. Miss Bixby's father gave the bell to the Congregational church.

The Historical Society has proved itself invaluable in collecting and preserving the early records of Sierra Madre and its meetings are of much interest.
